CLASS POEM

The Class of '49

Dear friends and classmates, teachers all,
We this night before you stand,
And thank you each and everyone,
For so often lending a helping hand.

Sometimes the way was thick with thorns,
The race was hard to run.
Yet, this makes the roses seem more dear,
Now that the goal is reached and won.

I know each one of us will say
In days to come and future years;
And recall the faces one by one
Who have so kindly helped and taught us here.

That our happiest days of childhood's dream
Were spent within this dear old place.
And most of all when we grew up
And proudly became the Senior Class.

And now adieu each loving friend,
Each classmate kind and true.
Remember the class of '49
Whose royal colors are white and blue.

CLASS WILL

We the Class of Burnsville School, county of Anson, State of North Carolina do hereby make and declare this our last will and testament in form and manner as follows:

To the school in general we leave the out-of-way nooks where we have been wanting to hide to waste the time we should have spent in studying.

To the faculty we bequeath the satisfaction which comes from duties well performed. We also leave them a large amount of sympathy for their depressing attempts to pound knowledge into our craniums.

To the Juniors, we bestow our greatest treasures: our senior dignity, our excellent wit, our superb brilliancy, our good looks, and our charming manners.

To the Juniors, as our rightful and worthy successors, we leave our seats. Occupy them but do not try to fill them.

To Billy Kiker, Edwin Tucker bequeaths his place as "Everybody's Pal".

To the laziest of the Senior class to-be, Rayford Lee Thomas, we bequeath J. B. Hinson's ambition.

To Anna Frances Allen, Mary Evelyn Thomas wills her beautiful figure.

To Peggy Caudle, Geraldine Allen wills her flirting ability. May she catch as many "gents" as Gerry has.

To Jerry Beachum, Harvey Thomas wills his ball suit. May he shoot as many goals as Harvey has.

To Warren Edwards, Glenn Godwin wills his romantic mind. May this further Warren in his courtship.

To Hugh Poplin, Elwood Thomas leaves his high grades. Congratulations Hugh.

To Elizabeth Curran, Vandolla Cornett wills her curly hair.

To Carolee Caudle, Betty Taylor wills her sense of humor.

To Annie Steele Smith, Ned Tarlton leaves his guessing ability. It will come in handy in any course.

To Rachel Howell, Frances Taylor wills her ability as a guard. May the team prosper.

To Nell Broadaway, Betty Jean Moore wills her job as Class Treasurer.

To Katholene Drye, Doris Ross bequeaths her place as Cheerleader.

To Emma Thomas, Myra Thomas wills her ability as high-scorer in the following season.

To Melton Turner, Lamar Nance bequeaths his quietness.

To Jack Parker, Albert Allen wills his appetite.

To Christine Smith, Edna Mae Smith bequeaths her ability to think intelligently.

To Doris Thomas, Dorothy Lee bequeaths her desire to become an old maid.

To Edison Martin, Bobby Caudle bequeaths his fluency in writing notes to the girls.

To Joe Poplin, Gilford Gaddy bequeaths his trick of looking innocent when caught in mischief.

To Harold Turner, Elizabeth Beachum wills her sunny smile.

To T. C. Threadgill, Bobby Thomas bequeaths his reputation as the school dude.

To Coy Baucom, Clinton Nance bequeaths his ability to lead the school singing.

To anyone in the Junior Class who has a talent for music, Curtis Bowers wills his ability to sing and to play string instruments.

Last comes the one thing hard for us to depart with our strong entrenched places in the hearts of the faculty who have loved us devotedly because they couldn't help it. Comfort them in their loss but don't imagine you can mangle their hearts as we have done.

Finally, we do hereby name and appoint our class advisor, Mrs. Simpson as the sole executor of this, our last will and testament.

Betty Jean Moore

CLASS PROPHECY

Last night as I sat alone in my study reading the prophecies of former classes of Burnsville High School, I fell in a trance. During my slumber I saw visions of the future for the class of 1949.

The first to appear in my dream was Ned Tarlton. He was preaching the gospel in the First Methodist Church in Chicago.

The scene changed. A car comes speeding down the highway. Suddenly it stops at a mailbox. Who is the carrier? No other than Edwin Tucker.

The third scene was a beautiful country home sitting in a grove. Behold. Who was the woman coming out the door? Betty Jean Moore, the wife of a "Carpenter".

Suddenly the inside view of a hospital comes upon the scene. Among the nurses and doctors, I recognized Dorothy Lee and Glenn Godwin.

How strange. I see a room in disorder and a man down on all fours looking at the rug through a magnifying glass. In one pocket is a notebook labeled "clues." In the other is a pair of handcuffs. He acts very peculiarly. Now he rises. It is Harvey Thomas. This is the result of all the mystery stories he was always reading. He is now a detective.

Next to appear in my dream was Albert Allen owner of the Eat and Run Restaurants all over the country. His partner is Gilford Gaddy Champion pancake "flopper" of the state.

The scene now turns to a display room of a large gown establishment in New York. A fashion show is in progress. Out on the stage glides a tall graceful figure. She wears her evening gown very well. She is a noted model. Who is it? Why it is Mary Evelyn Thomas one of my classmates.

Now I see a lovely college town. There is a great crowd in the chapel. The new president is being inaugurated. Here he comes in his cap and gown looking most impressive. He is greeted enthusiastically and seems to be enjoying himself. It is our studious schoolmate, Elwood Thomas. Now wouldn't you expect him to be something or other like that.

The scene changed again. It is nine o'clock on a July morning. The school bells are ringing. Tiny first graders are hurrying up the walk to greet their teacher. She stands in the door daintily dressed. As she leans forward to take the flowers a little girl has brought her, I see her smiling face. It is Elizabeth Beachum.

Suddenly the scene grows strange. It is three o'clock in the morning. A huge truck comes down the street and pauses at the entrance of every home. A man delivers a rack of milk bottles and drives on down the street. It is Bobby Thomas, proprietor and owner of a large dairy farm making the delivery himself for the fun of it. Now he has an excuse for being up so late when the cop catches him. He always did like to stay up all night.

CLASS PROPHECY

The inside of an art gallery now comes into view. I see thousands of beautiful paintings. Of them all in particular one seems to stand out from all the rest. The colors are beautifully combined. I wonder who painted that. Wait a minute I see a name. Why it says Lamar Nance. He always did like to paint.

Suddenly I find myself out in the middle of the ocean on a ship. I see a man coming toward me dressed as a pirate. He has gold earrings in his ears. Red kerchief around his neck. On his head is a large black hat turned up in front. As an emblem it bears a skull and crossbones. Who can it be? Why it is Curtis Bowers turned pirate.

Now I see a lovely little cottage by the navy yard. I see a county garage gas truck parked in the yard. Three small boys are playing on the porch. A woman comes to the door and says come to dinner. I recognize her as Frances Taylor, now Mrs. Bowman.

The inside view of a politician's office comes into view. I see a man pulling his hair and yelling. It is Glenn Godwin candidate for the Governor of N. C. He has been defeated by one point--cast by his campaign manager, Clinton Nance.

I am now in the office of Treadaway's Conoco Service Station. Mr. Treadaway is dictating a letter to his secretary. Her back is turned toward me but she looks familiar. She turns to her typewriter and I see who it is. No less than Myra Grey Thomas.

The scene now goes to a patent office in Washington,. D. C. J. B. Hinson and Geraldine Allen are applying for a patent for their latest invention, the Do Everything. This machine washes, irons, washes the dishes, scrubs, gets meals, gets the children off to school, tends the furnace and does the marketing, all with very little cost. It also has an automatic attachment which will reach out and slap the kids when they pull the cat's tail.

Suddenly I hear violin music. Now I hear a girl singing. Someone has the radio turned on. The announcer says, you have been listening to Vandola Cornett, accompanied by the music of Bobby Caudle and his orchestra, singing "Life Without Human Beings", one of her own compositions.

The scene now changes to a large Air Port at Charlotte. Among the passengers getting off the plane I see Betty Taylor, one of the Stewardess, helping two little girls and a woman off the plane as the woman comes near I recognize her as Edna Mae Smith now a child nurse.

CLASS HISTORY

Twelve years ago, the present senior class, with bright expectant faces presented itself to the first grades of various schools to delve into the mysteries of Readin', Ritin', and Rithmatic.

After going through the usual trials and tribulations of elementary student quarrels, pranks, and punishments we appeared in High School, all scrubbed and shined, in new dresses and ribbons, long pants and bow ties under the direction of Miss Hendley, our home room teacher.

We started our High School with an enrollment of 35 eager Freshmen, full of enthusiasm and extreme ideas which our new principal, Mrs. Thomason immediately curved and directed us in the channels with Miss Hendley as Home Ec.; Mr. Jones, Agriculture; Mrs. Simpson, English.

We entered the Sophomore year with our usual smiling faces. This was another year which we enjoyed to the fullest. We started this year with Mr. Bailey as principal, followed by Mr. Wall, Mr. Jones, Mr. Brown, and ended with Mrs. White. Other teachers were Mrs. Hatcher, Math., Geography, and Geometry; Mr. Jones, Agriculture; Mrs. Simpson, English, French; and Mrs. Allen, Home Ec. and History.

When we came to school as Juniors we missed several old faces. Eloise Carelock, Louise Thomas, and Sylvia Baucom got married during the vacation. We missed two boys, Craven Kiker and Jack Thomas. Craven joined the service and Jack started to work at Central Falls. During the latter part of the year Vandola Cornett came from Boone High School and entered our class. This was one of our most successful years under the sponsorship of Mr. Bailey as principal. The other teachers were Mrs. Hatcher, Geography, Math., French, and English; Mrs. Simpson, English, History and Speech; Mr. Jones, Agriculture; and Mrs. Bailey Home Ec. The main social event of the year was the Junior-Senior Banquet which was financed by a program given by the Juniors.

In September we entered school as Seniors with new dignity befitting our classification. This year we lost two of our classmates: Ruth Drye who completed her high school course in the summer session at Wingate Junior College, and John Henry Parker who enrolled as a Senior in Oakboro High school. We were under the guidance of Mr. Knoy as principal; Mrs. Simpson English, French, and Speech; Mrs. Givens, Home Ec. and Health; Mr. Johnson, Agriculture; and Mrs. Moore, Math., Biology and English.

Our biggest job of the year was the financing of the school Annual which was done by the sale of ads. We also presented a play "CHEERIO MY DEARIO". The money which we took in was used to buy a time clock for the school. There were also some of the greatest actresses and actors a High School has ever owned.

Burnsville High School will suffer greatly the loss of the basketball teams.

We will always greatly appreciate our parents and teachers for making it possible for us to arrive at this final day in our High School education.

CLASS JOKES

Mr. Kanoy: "You had better watch your step in my class room."
Doris: "What's the matter? Is the flooring loose?"

J. B.: "It's funny all autos have the tobacco habit, isn't it?"
Edwin: "The tobacco habit?"
J. B.: "Yes, I understand that gasoline cars smoke, while electric cars won't start without a plug."

Clinton: "I'm having terrible luck trying to raise chickens. They are all dying."
Elizabeth: "What kind of feed are you giving them?"
Clinton: "Feed? Why, none. I supposed the old hen gave enough milk for them."

Geraldine: "I was unconscious for three hours yesterday."
Mr. Johnson: "An accident?"
Geraldine: "No, just catching up on sleep."

Mrs. Allen: "What's the trouble? Why have you made such poor grades this month?"
Albert: "There's no trouble. You know yourself things are always marked down after the holidays."

Myra: "But my father doesn't like you."
Harvey: "Gosh, that's nothing. My whole family objects to you."

Mrs. Kanoy: "Dear, tomorrow is our twenty-fifth anniversary. Shall I kill the turkey?"
Mr. Kanoy: "No, let him live. He didn't have anything to do with it."

Dorothy: Is it dangerous to drive with one hand?"
Glenn: "You bet. Many a guy has run into a church doing that."

Curtis (seriously): "If it rains tonight, it's surely going to spoil the ice cream supper."
Mary: "Where?"
Curtis: "Wherever they have it."

Officer: "Lady, you were going forty miles an hour."
Betty Jean: "You must be mistaken officer. I left home less than twenty minutes ago."

Mr. Johnson: "Mention twelve animals of the polar region, Harvey."
Harvey: "Two seals and ten polar bears."

Bob: "Why is your car painted blue on one side and red on the other?"
Ned (speeder): "Oh, it's a fine idea. You should hear the witnesses contradict each other."

Elwood: "How did you make your neighbors keep his hens in his own yard?"
Lamar: "One night I hid half a dozen eggs under a bush in my garden, and next day I let him see me gather them. I haven't been bothered since then."

Mother: "Don't you want to be the kind of girl that people look up to?"
Vandola: "No, I want to be the kind of girl that people look around at."

Mrs. Gaddy: "What part of the chicken do you wish?"
Gilford: "Some of the meat, please."

Gilford: "How many senses have you?"
Ned: "Six."
Gilford: "Six? I have only five."
Ned: "I know it. The other is common sense."

Curtis: "Do you like women who chatter or the other sort?"
Mr. Johnson: "What other sort?"

George: "Every time I kiss you it makes me a better man."
Doris: "Well, you don't have to try to get to heaven in one night."

Edna Mae: "What do you want?"
Odice: "Everything in this room."
Edna Mae: "How delightful. When shall we be married?"

J. B.: "When was radio first used?"
Edwin: "In seventeen seventy-five, when Paul Revere broadcast with one plug."

Doris: "So King kissed you for an hour. How did that happen?"
Frances: "Well, I didn't stop to think, and he didn't think to stop."

Mrs. Simpson: "Bobby, is trousers singular or plural?"
Bobby: "Singular at the top and plural at the bottom."

Betty: "Why is a man like a piece of lace?"
Dorothy: "Because you usually find him running around a skirt.

Betty Jean: "What do you mean by making love to me?"
Dwight: "Anything but marriage."

GIFTORIAN

When I was a child I read a story entitled "The Silencer" in which a talkative little boy dreamed that a contrivance was fitted over his jaws which kept his mouth shut. Although that was only a fanciful tale, I had hoped that someone might have invented a machine of that kind, and I have searched for one from ocean to ocean, but in vain. Yet I knew something must be done to keep Bobby Thomas quiet while I execute this important function. In my distress I selected this all-day sucker, knowing it would work silently and effectually. Bobby, please accept this with my best wishes for your enjoyment.

Edna Mae Smith, please accept this rolling-pin. Use this on Otis's head when he becomes unruly.

Lamar Nance, this is not the real ring. It is just a reminder of the one Mildred is waiting for.

To Frances Taylor, who seems to have such a hard time keeping her seat when the county Gas truck arrives, we give this little gas truck. Happy memories, Frances.

Curtis Bowers, being regarded by us as having unusual musical ability, we would encourage to greater efforts by giving this fine Jew's harp.

To Geraldine Allen we give this boat so that when it rains, Maynard can get across the creek.

Betty Jean Moore we give you this frying pan not to fry eggs in but to use over Dwight's head.

To Gilford Gaddy we give this patrol car. May it help you to remember to watch the speedometer.

Myra Grey Thomas we give you this chicken. Add this to your brood of chickens.

To Carolyn Thomas we give this book. May it help you to remember us.

Conrad Tucker we're giving you this little bank. Here's hoping it helps you start your banking account.

Since Betty Taylor seems to have a fondness for long and impressive sounding words, we would bestow upon you this handy pocket dictionary which will be of great value in furnishing new words.

To J. B. Hinson we have this dignified little owl, which, being known as a "wise old bird" is quite typical of your reputation as one of the brainy members of the class. May it incite you to climb high on Learning's Hill.

To Doris Ross we leave this package of gum, trusting it may help you to overcome your desire to "chew the rag" with the faculty and your classmates, by providing a good substitute.

To Clinton Nance, I give this wheelbarrow. May you push that certain "Freshman" in it.

To Vandolla Cornett, who seems to have natural ability for writing most anything from a nonsense rhyme to an obituary, we give this pen, hoping it may aid you in winning laurels in the literary world.

To Albert Allen, we give this package of dates because you have such an indifference for History that we are afraid without these you'll never acquire any dates whatsoever.

To Ned Tarlton, I give this toy monkey. May it help you to remember the days you were the monkey of our class.

To Glenn Godwin, who is such a favorite with the girls, we give this mitten, knowing that if we don't give it to you no one else ever will.

To Elizabeth Beachum we give this bottle of catchup hoping it may incite you to speed up a little and catch up with the rest of the Seniors in pranks of mischief and frivolity.

Elwood Thomas, you seem to have perpetual worries if your hair doesn't look "just so". Accept this little mirror so that you may look your best.

Dorothy Lee I give this iron. May you keep your clothes as neat in the future as your mother has in the past.

Bobby Caudle, please accept this little basketball. Let it help you to remember the many games you have helped win for Burnsville Hi.

To Harvey Thomas, we give this brush. May this help you to give the "many" girls who run after you, the brush-off.

Edwin Tucker we give this little doll to help you remember the girls of the Senior Class.

To Mary Evelyn Thomas we give this little navy boy. This will keep you company while Curtis is in service.

By Mary Evelyn Thomas

CLASS GRUMBLER

Life's bed is sometimes soft but mostly like crab-apples, bitter. I say crab-apples because I liken them unto hurt pride. For who is not bitter when his pride has been hurt? Four long years ago when we entered High School we felt very grown-up ladies and gentlemen. But alas. The higher classes, especially the Seniors, didn't seem to regard us more than mere babies. And now that we have become Seniors ourselves The Searchers seem to think our high and mighty position undeserved. They will even make us write themes for cutting classes and threaten to double our work if we do not come to class with our homework up to the date.

When we were Freshmen we never dared to speak to a Senior but always "tipped our hats and slowly walked away." But some of the Freshmen in this school have actually dared to call us by our first names, when we know that our position calls for the honor of being called Mister or Miss if not Monsieur or Mademoiselle.

The Sophomores have more deeply wounded our pride than any class. They have bitten the crab-apple to the core. They even try to learn more French than we do, and copy the latest styles to the highest degree. They also expect us to speak and gossip with them the same as we do with our fellow Senior. No, away with ye Sophomores; we will not claim you for our own, though your dresses sweep the halls of fame.

The Juniors of our day paid their due respects to every Senior and made their bow when one of the ladies or gentlemen passed. But alas. These Juniors dare to walk upright in our very presence and very seldom do they pay their respects by being quiet. Why, many times have we heard them shuffle their feet and talk out loud in the hall right in our presence. No, they actually dare to sit in our honored seats in our honorable classrooms. Several times have they crowded the aisles when a Senior wished to pass.

Our principal has talked back to us many times. But now, dear sir, you must listen to us talk to you. You have told us not to yell in the hall. How did you think we could tell everyone of our enthroned position if we did halloo? And never will we get over being told not to talk in study hall. Surely, if you could remember your Senior days you would know that the most important affairs of business must be discussed in study hall. Although it is fantastic that you could once have been as young as we, can you not remember how deeply your pride was hurt when your principal looked at you as if you had done something wrong, when you had done nothing more than copy fifty out of sixty of your History exam questions? Could you keep up with your dates and examinations too?

Yes, we have actually seen you and some of the other teachers smile behind your hands when we were deep in the discussion of our high and mighty rights. You seemed to think we were entirely too young to discuss our intentions of life. Yes, by everyone we have had our pride goaded and hurt until we were forced to record this complaint. We ask you kindly to remember us. In years to come if you happen to meet us in our different walks of life, we may smile but the bitterness will never entirely fade away from our minds.

BASKETBALL

Burnsville High School has just completed what is possibly the greatest record that has ever been compiled by Burnsville teams.

After reigning supreme over all opposition in Anson County during the regular season, Burnsville girls and boys proved their ability by walking off with both Championship Cups in the annual Anson County Basketball Tournament.

Not being satisfied with just winning the championship, Burnsville also placed Mary Thomas, Myra Thomas, and Geraldine Allen on the Girls' All-Tournament Team and Curtis Bowers, Harvey Thomas, and Bobby Caudle on the Boy's All-Tournament Team.

Burnsville High School is justly proud of the players on each team and of Coach Johnson and his excellent work and influence. But, B. H. S. is even more proud of the spirit of sportsmanship which was exhibited by the members of its team, which proved that a consistent winner could be a true and humble sportsmen with feeling for the loser. This honorable and commendable spirit reminds one of the poet who said

"For when the one great scorer comes to write by your name,
It matters not whether you have won or lost,
But how you played the game."

Win or lose, Burnsville can make this spirit traditional.
